TREASURE HUNT

Once upon a time in a distant land lived three friends, Adam, Ben, and Cathy, who were very fond of adventures.

One day, Adam was digging a hole with a shovel and discovered a box containing a map in his garden. It was a map of a hidden treasure in the castle on the outskirts of his town!!

Adam showed the map to Ben and Cathy, who got excited to go on a treasure hunt.

"Let's go on the Treasure Hunt, Adam!!" Cathy said, jumping up and down with joy.

"Yeaaahhh! Let's go! We will find the treasure," said Ben, pumping his fists in the air.

But there was one problem.

"Do you not know that the Castle is haunted?" asked Adam, staring at both his friends.

It was true. They had heard stories about a ghost in the castle. People said he was the last king who died protecting his castle.

"Who cares? There is a big treasure there and we have a map too," Ben said confidently.

"What if the ghost still guards the treasure?" Cathy asked, while shuddering at the thought of encountering a ghost.

Do you not know that the Castle is haunted?

Who cares? There is a big Treasure to be found here and we have a map too

What if the ghost still guards the treasure?

"Hmmm... Let's put it to vote," Adam said.

An excited Ben raised his chubby hand in the air and danced around, while Cathy shook her head in dismay. Now it was up to Adam. After a lot of thinking, Adam said, "I want to do this."

Cathy sighed, Ben rejoiced, and Adam started making a list of things the three of them would need for the adventure trip.

With every essential item like torchlight, candle, lighter, safety weapon, walkie-talkies, water bottles, wafers, candy bars, lunchboxes, map of the castle, magnetic compass, etc. packed in their rucksacks, our heroes embarked on a Treasure Hunt.

They started the journey on their bicycles at 6 AM. By the time they reached halfway, it was already noon. They parked their bikes under a big banyan tree and sat down to lunch.

"That was a very long ride", said Ben, wiping his sweat off.

"We have to discuss the plan again", Adam said, taking out the map from his rucksack and spreading it on the grass. "There are three doors and we have less time because by the time we'll reach the castle, it will be evening," he added.

"So, we'll have to go separate ways in order to cover more ground quickly," Cathy said, while sipping on her coke.

"Correct!! Guys, always keep your walkie-talkie by your side to stay connected with each other," said Adam.

"Ben, did you understand the plan up till now?" Cathy asked, raising her eyebrows while Ben continued stuffing his face in the burger.

*Couggh!! Couggh!!*

"Hey kids!!!!"

Everyone looked up to find that there was an old man in shabby clothes selling ice creams.

Adam quickly hid the map.

"I heard you guys are planning to enter the castle", said the old man in a squeaky voice.

Ben gave him a stern look and said, "Yeah, so?? Mind your own business!!"

Old man started laughing. "Don't worry, I'll not steal your treasure, but I can surely help you out with the route."

"Why would you help us?" Ben asked in between his cola sips.

"Because I've never seen brave children like you guys," said the old man.

The old man sat down with them and Adam spread out the map again. They realized the old fella did know his way around and shared some vital information with them about the Treasure Hunt. He guided them to the right path and how to open some locks.

After a quick lunch, the trio continued their ride to the castle. After a long ride, they finally reached the castle at 6 PM.

The castle had a looming presence. Cathy shuddered. Ben and Adam looked at one another and gulped in fear. As decided, all of them dispersed and followed their respective directions to enter the castle.

Adam entered through the front door, Ben through the westside window, and Cathy used the back gate. The sun was setting and heartbeats were racing. Darkness surrounded the castle, and it became harder to find the way.
